

A family camp

Spencer went to a family camp with his parents. They looked at a poster on the noticeboard. It was about a horse-riding class. Spencer saw a boy with a cap also looking at the poster. Both of them wanted to join this activity.

'Would you like to join the horse-riding class with me?' Spencer asked. 'Yes, I'd like to,' the boy replied. They felt excited. Then, Spencer asked the boy, 'Have you ever ridden a horse?' 'Yes, I've ridden a horse once. It's exciting!' the boy answered.

After that, Spencer and the boy learnt to ride the horses. They learnt to give orders to the horses. They thought it was funny.

Finally, the boy watched the sunset and had BBQ with Spencer's family. They were happy.