Today was Macy's birthday. Macy invited me to her birthday party at her home. Macy's birthday was at half past one today. I was excited about it. I used the oven to bake a chocolate cake for Macy because she liked eating chocolate cake. I hoped she would like it.

At lunchtime, my mum asked me, 'How long does it take to go from our home to Macy's home?' I replied, 'It takes about thirty minutes by bus.'

After lunch, I went on the bus to go to Macy's home. However, there was a traffic jam on the way. I was nervous because the bus was as slow as a snail and the time was already one forty.

In the end, I arrived at Macy's home at one fifty. I said, 'Sorry, Macy. I am late about 20 minutes.' Macy replied, 'It's just fine, I will forgive you because you are my best friend.' Then, we ate the chocolate cake and had a great time at the party.
