I had a wonderful day today. This morning I went to a toy shop and saw a cute robot cat. I was very excited and bought it home!

I think the robot cat is really amazing because it could speak with me. It said 'Hello' to me! I said happily, 'Hi! It is amazing that you can talk with me. What else can you do?' It answered me friendly.

After eleven o' clock, it's time to go to school! I wanted to show my robot cat to my friend, Lisa, so I brought it to school.

Lisa thought my robot cat was cute. She asked me, 'Where did you buy it? I want a robot cat too!' I told her that I bought it at the toy shop. It was two hundred dollars. When Lisa knew the price of my robot cat, she was shocked. She looked disappointed. She said, 'Oh! It is too expensive!'

Today was Lisa's birthday, so I gave the robot cat to her and said, 'Don't be sad. Please keep this robot cat. It is your birthday present. Happy birthday!' Lisa was amazed. She had a wonderful birthday!

Defeating Evil

Hu Charlie Ka Yeung (4B)

Professor Power is the brave hero who protected his planet. He found that some evil power was approaching. 'Alright team, we have to find a way to defeat Cyborg Cyber!' said Professor Power. Fragrance Flamer said, 'If we somehow find a way to control the Minigun Minions get into CC and attack him instead of us, we might have a chance!' 'Good idea! Technology Tank, any plan to do that?' asked Professor Power. 'There is a micro chip which can control the Minigun Minions. We have to steal it from one of them, thus, we may get a chance to win!' Without saying anything, Professor Power nodded his head and the trios set off.

The two teams met and battled with confidence as Technology Tank stole the chip without Cyborg Cyber's notice. An empty seat

Chan Yuk Fung, Andy (5A)

When I was five, my mum and I went to visit my grandmother by bus. When we got on the bus, there were crowds of people standing inside. There was no seat free. So my mum and I held onto a handle near the driver. When the bus started to move, it was very shaky. I tried my best to stand still by holding my mum's leg but I still couldn't stop my head knocking toward my mum's leg.

When the bus reached the next stop, an old lady got onto the bus. I thought that she'd just finished her shopping because she was carrying a huge bag full of turnips. She was walking very slow because of the weight of the bag. The driver told her to hurry even though she walked as fast as she could. Then a teenager gave her a seat but the old lady didn't sit on it. What she said moved me. She said, 'Thank you for your help. Although I am old, I can still manage the journey without a seat. We should give the seats to people who need them the most.' Then the teenager suggested to give the seat to me because my legs were shaking and I could not stand still. Then my mum said to me, 'My honey, there's a seat over there. I know you are tired. You can go and have a break.' But I shook my head because there were a lot of people on the bus and I recognised that there must be somebody who needed the seat most, so everyone on the bus decided to leave the seat empty to let someone who needed the seat most to take a rest.

At last, a pregnant woman got onto the bus. She sat on the seat and all of the people on the bus were happy because we had helped someone who needed help.

There are many instances of good people and good deeds nowadays and we should commend them and help the needy.

My house is a zoo

Peng Ho Li, Holi (5A)

My dad is a kind-hearted person. He is full of sympathy for animals, especially the abandoned pets.

One day, there was a parrot on the way to my dad's office. It looked too exhausted to fly away. 'Maybe it has been abandoned by its owner.' My dad thought, 'What a poor bird! May I help you?' My dad walked closely to the parrot and put it on his hand. The bird was very timid but it was really tired and couldn't fly away. So my dad took it home, fed it with some food and water and put it into a bird cage. Day by day, it became better and better. It began to sing every day and looked pretty energetic. My dad thought it might be boring if there was just one parrot, so he bought another one as its partner. They played happily every day. A few months later, they laid some eggs! When my friends heard that, they all came to my house to see what the parrot eggs looked like. After two weeks, the baby parrots were born. Many of my friends wanted to adopt the baby parrots.

One morning, my dad saw a hedgehog, which was curled into a ball on the lawn, when he was walking around a park. It was sick and dying. It seemed that nobody had taken care of it for a long time. He took it home immediately because the weather was very cold and it might die if nobody adopted it. He used a box for its home and made a little nest in it. He looked after it carefully. Two days later, it recovered. We could touch it with gloves at first. After a few days, we could just use our hands directly because we became friends. My dad gave it a lot of food every day, so it became very fat and cute. It ran home quickly with its short legs. How cute! My neighbours always come to my home and enjoy watching and playing with it. Except the parrots and hedgehog, there are also lots of fish and some tortoises in my home. All of them are living happily. I think my house looks like a zoo, doesn't it?

My dad is really a good person. He always teaches us that we should take the responsibility of taking care of our pets if we keep them. Even though it might be laborious, it is enjoyable when you see your pet becoming better and healthier. Animals and humans can be friends. We should pass this feeling to evoke the sympathy of other people for animals. I do hope no pet will be abandoned by its owner anymore.

Always ready to contribute

Ge Yung (5A)

It was the first day of winter holidays. My mum and I went to be volunteers. We helped the Covid-19 Test Area in our residential district. At the very beginning, I felt excited but a bit nervous. 'Can I do the job well?'

Before we started to work, we needed to wear our masks and gloves carefully. Our first task was to do some preparation. We tied the ribbons on the guardrail to let people know the right way to queue. Once we found that the ribbons were not enough. I ran to the nearest store and quickly fetched some. Then, the preparation would be finished well.

It was nearly two o'clock. A long queue had already been formed outside the Covid-19 Test Area. We needed to give some instructions about how to activate the testing code. Our team leader, Miss Wang, told us that we should maintain social distance. I remembered an old man needing help on that day. He didn't know anything about the test and asked me how to activate his code. I taught him to click on his mobile phone patiently. He was satisfied that I solved the problem. I felt good.

Also, I had to remind people to keep a distance of at least 1 metre from one another. I saw a man with a long beard shouting loudly to a lady in front of him. He was so rude. It frightened me. At this time, Miss Wang came. She explained to the man patiently about the necessary of 'safety distance'. What we did was protecting everyone. After a while, the man became calm and felt sorry for his rudeness. I admired the way my team leader handled that situation.

I also saw a woman with a big stomach and her movement was extra slow. So I took the lead to talk to her, 'Hi, you can go to the special channel. You do not need to line up here. Let me show you the way.' When she heard that, she followed me and thanked me a lot.

In the end, we had to tidy up the place before we left. During the working hours, I saw my friend, Holi, came. I said hello to him. I was really glad to see him. But we didn't chat a lot because I was a bit busy. Many people came to ask for help. Although I felt exhausted after the five-hour workday, it was really a joyful and unforgettable day for me. I learned a lot and enjoyed helping people. I am proud of being a volunteer and I will always be ready to contribute to society.

My brave dog

Ge Yung (5A)

10 July 20XX (Sat)

Foggy

I went to the park after lunch today. I went to the park with my dog, Lucky. I thought he was so smart that he could learn a lot of tricks quickly. We had a good time playing games near the bushes.

Suddenly, a robber with a mask jumped out from the bushes and shouted, 'Give me all your money!' I was very scared of him because he had a knife. Then I said, 'Lucky, attack him!' Lucky rushed to the robber and bit his leg at once. The robber was in pain and dropped his knife carelessly. I called the police.

When the policemen came, they saw the robber on the street and caught him. Lucky saved me today so I bought him a hamburger to thank him. He is my loyal friend!

Life in the past and at present

Huang Haoming, Henry (5A)

Nowadays, our lives are more convenient than 30 years ago. Do you know the changes between the 70s and now? Let me tell you more about them.

In the past, technology did not develop very well, so our lives were not convenient. My mum had to walk 1.5 km to her school. If you wanted to watch TV after dinner, you had to watch a blurry black and white TV. It was inconvenient because you had to adjust the TV aerial.

In the 70s, we had to buy a lot of things such as a record player, paper books, etc. Now, with a cell phone, we can read without books, draw without paper and listen to music without a record player, so our lives are very convenient now.

In the future, I believe our lives will be more and more convenient. We may have maglev cars and buildings with hundreds of storeys. Space travel may become very popular.

Besides enjoying my present life, I am also looking forward to my future life. Are you looking forward to your future life? I think the future life will be more convenient than nowadays. We'll see how convenient our lives will be in the future.

A birthday party for Mum

Lau Hin Wang, Season (5B)

Last Saturday, it was our mum's birthday. My sister and I organized a birthday party for her because we wanted to make her happy.

At the supermarket, I received a phone call from my sister. 'Have you bought the things for the party yet?' she said. 'Yes, I have already bought them,' I said.

When the birthday party began, a lot of people showed up. They were excited about the party but something terrible happened. I forgot to buy the birthday cake. A lot of people blamed me. 'Are these guys disappointed just because of a single cake? How funny!' I thought at first. And then I found out that was the most important part of the party. I realized I ruined the party! I felt bad.

Then Mum said, 'Nothing is more important than a family.' So we baked a cake together but we failed. Luckily, Mum said, 'It's okay! At least we had fun!' We all laughed.

At a Chinese restaurant

Chan Lon Him, Maxton (5B)

This afternoon, we went to a Chinese restaurant. When we sat down, we saw a boy and his mum. Soon, they spoke with food in their mouths and threw a piece of bone on the floor. They were very impolite!

After they finished the meal, the boy ran around the restaurant. His mum kept talking loudly on the phone and didn't care about it.

Suddenly, the boy knocked into the waiter carelessly and the noodles spilt onto his clothes. The boy and his mum were angry and shouted at the waiter. We were very annoyed, so we stared at them impatiently. We didn't want to eat anything.

Finally, the manager came and saw that. He said, 'What happened here?' I said, 'They made me lose my appetite.' The manager apologized and compensated us.

A hot summer night

Wong Cho Kiu, Yobi (5B)

It was a hot summer night. At eight o'clock, Ann's family was finishing their dinner when Mum turned on the air-conditioner and the lights. Everyone was in the living room. Ann was playing with her baby brother, Sam, while her mum was reading some books. They were sitting on the sofa.

All of a sudden, the lights and the air-conditioning turned off. Ann and Sam were scared because it was very dark. Later, her mum found a torch in her bedroom and she turned it on. They felt hot and heard some noises. They came from Sam. He was crying loudly. Mum was calling for help.

In the end, Ann used a paper fan to keep cool. They waited for a long time until the air-conditioning and the lights came back on.

A birthday party for Mum

Li Yue Han, Jack (5C)

Yesterday was Mum's birthday. My sister, Kitty and I decided to celebrate with her. First, we made a to-do list. After that, I went to the supermarket to buy the food.

When I went out to the supermarket, Kitty used her phone to call me. 'Have you bought the food yet?' she asked. 'Yes, I have already bought the food.' I replied and then asked her, 'How about you? Have you decorated our house and written the birthday card yet?' 'I have already decorated our house but I have not written the birthday card yet. I'll write it then,' she replied. 'Ok, I'll come back soon.' I said.

One hour later, Mum came back and she was surprised by the party. Dad asked, 'Where is the cake?' 'Oh, sorry! I forgot to buy the cake.' I said. But Mum didn't feel disappointed and said, 'No problem, we can eat bread.'

Finally, we all felt happy at the birthday party.

At a Chinese restaurant

Yu Yue, Angel (5C)

This afternoon, I had lunch with my family and we had a bad afternoon, because there was a rude woman and a boy who sat at the table next to us. Their behaviour was so impolite. At first, the boy spoke loudly with food in his mouth and the woman threw a piece of bone on the floor. After they finished the lunch, the woman talked on the phone loudly and the boy ran around the restaurant. We felt so bad.

Suddenly, the boy knocked into the waiter and the noodles spilt onto the boy's T-shirt. The woman shouted loudly, 'What are you doing? I will complain about you!'

At that moment, my dad said, 'Your behaviour is so rude and impolite! You shouldn't throw a piece of bone onto the floor and you should talk on the phone softly! You need to say sorry to the waiter.' Finally, the woman realized they were wrong and they said sorry to the waiter.

This was a terrible afternoon.

Life then and now

Huang Erin Tsz Ham (5C)

Things have changes over the years. People's living has changed in the past and at present.

The technology has changed our lives in different ways. In the past, people listened to the news on the radio. Now, people watched the news on a tablet. In the past, people kept in contact with friends by writing letters with pen and paper. Now, people send text messages on mobile phones to keep contact with their friends. In the past, people kept cool with a paper fan. Now, people keep cool with an air-conditioner.

I prefer life now because life is comfortable and it is easy to contact other people by mobile phone.

At a Chinese restaurant

Lee Wa Keung, Jacky (5D)

This afternoon, my father, my mother, and I had lunch in a Chinese restaurant because it is my mother's birthday today. However, the people sitting next to us were impolite.

The boy ran around the restaurant, and his mother talked loudly on the phone. I thought they were very rude.

'Oh!' the boy shouted. He knocked into the waiter suddenly and all the noodles spilled onto the floor.

His mother ran to see what had happened. She was angry and slapped his face. She said sorry to the waiter with embarrassment.

I have learned that we should not run around and talk loudly in public places so that we will not disturb other people.

A birthday party for Mum

Lam Wing Shan, Wing (5D)

Today is my mother's birthday. My sister and I were organizing a birthday party for her. We had already planned this for a week. But we couldn't get time to work on it, so this morning my sister and I were home alone. I could finally use the to-do list that prepared before.

First, we tidied up the living room to make space for decorations. My mum liked roses so we put rose patterns everywhere. We even put some stickers of roses on balloons.

After that, I went to the supermarket to buy her a present and a bunch of snacks and drinks while my sister was writing a birthday card at home. I bought my mum her favourite necklace. She always wants it, but she doesn't want to waste money.

Suddenly, my sister called me. 'Calvin, Mum is home. Have you bought the presents and the other stuff yet?' I replied, 'Yes, I have. I'm gonna come home now.'

After I went back home, I set all the snacks and drinks on the table. Then, my dad asked, 'Calvin? Where's the cake?' I have never felt so disappointed in myself. I got upset but my mum consoled me and said, 'It's okay. It is just a minor mistake. And we can replace the cake with cupcakes.' I felt a lot better and was relieved that she wasn't angry at me.

In the end, everyone enjoyed the party. My mum was so pleased when she saw that I got her the precious necklace and she cherished it. This was the best day of her life.

My brave dog

Li Yin Lam, Lucas (5D)

Believe it or not, even a small dog can do a great job!

Yesterday morning, I walked my dog in the park. When I was walking, my dog had a dump. So I put on my gloves and laid a piece of newspaper on the ground. When I was throwing out the newspaper, I saw a strange man pointing a knife at a woman. She was scared and said in a trembling voice, 'Don't hurt me! I'll give you all my jewels!'

I was shocked. I grabbed my phone and called the police, but my phone ran out of battery midway through my call! My dog was barking when the thief ran away. My dog chased him and kept barking. The thief did not pay attention on the path. He tripped over a rock and his head smashed onto the ground!

When I got there, his head was gushing blood. The woman took her purse back and called the police. When the police were checking the thief's head, the ambulance arrived. They finally took him to the hospital and arrested him.

When the woman found me, I was on my way home. She said 'thank you' to me gratefully. I felt pleased that we helped the woman and stopped a crime.

Forces of nature

Wu Jiaqi, Candy (6A)

Long time ago, there was a girl called Lily. Lily did not like helping the needy. She had never donated money to charity, sold flags or visited the elderly home. She was not kind or helpful. At school, all her classmates joined activities to raise money for the charity, only she refused to join them. She was very selfish.

One night, Lily was watching TV at home. She watched a documentary which was about a powerful earthquake in Japan. In the TV programme, an earthquake measuring 5.8 on the Richter scale struck northern Japan! The buildings shook severely. Everyone was panicking. A man was very frightened. He hid under a table quickly so he wouldn't be buried by the broken ceiling. But Lily thought the TV programme was boring. 'I'm not interested in anything about natural events or disasters. This TV programme is so tiresome!' Lily said. Then she went to bed.

Lily went to bed after watching TV. At first, she slept soundly. But at midnight, she had a terrible nightmare. It was upsetting and scary. In her dream, a powerful earthquake occurred. It caused severe floods and tsunamis. The earthquake caused enormous damage to the houses and buildings, and destroyed everything. All the people lost their homes. Somebody even lost their family members! Lily lost her home too. She could only live in a tent. She was cold at night because she did not have any blankets. Nobody helped her. She felt lonely and helpless.

The next morning when Lily woke up, she was very worried about the people who lived in the earthquake zones. She finally understood that they needed help! She regretted that she didn't help them before.

From then on, Lily was willing to help the people in need. She enjoyed joining the charity work and always donated money to the charity.

Developing good habits

Chen Li Sha, Angel (6C)

I am going to develop some good habits to improve my health and make me a better person. I have some bad habits and I want to change them.

I always spend too much time after school playing computer games and I often forget to do my homework. I should spend less time playing computer games because I want to finish my homework on time. Moreover, playing games for too long hurts my eyes. I think it is very difficult to get rid of this bad habit, but I will limit my computer game time to fifty minutes per day.

Since I sometimes get up late in the morning, I have to skip breakfast and get to school late. Skipping breakfast makes me feel hungry and tired. I should go to bed earlier and be punctual because I want to stay awake during the day, and I do not want to miss out on anything in my lessons.

Additionally, I always bite my fingernails because they are too long. Keeping fingernails long is dangerous because it is dirty and unhygienic. I should cut my fingernails regularly to prevent germs from entering my body.

I hope I can develop these good habits since they are very important for me and my wellbeing.

Chau Lok Hin, Issac (6D)

9th September, 2021

Sunny

I was absent from school last week because I had a fever and a runny nose. My mum put her hand on my head and checked my temperature. My mum told me to see a doctor but I was too sick to move. I had to force myself to move.

When I went to the clinic, I saw a lot of patients who were not wearing masks. The person sat next to me was sneezing a lot, so I moved to another seat.

When it was my turn, the doctor said, 'You have a cold. You need to take some medicine, take more rest and wrap up warm.'

A few days later, I felt much better. I could play and go to school!

29th April

Today is my friend Macy's birthday. I baked a birthday cake for her birthday party this afternoon. I was as busy as a bee in the kitchen this morning. I felt very excited.

My mum asked me, 'When do you go to Macy's birthday party?' I answered her, 'I need to go to her home before 1:00 p.m.' My mum asked me, 'How long does it take to go from our home to Macy's home by bus?' I answered her, 'It takes about 30 minutes by bus.'

The bus was very crowded and slow. I stood on the bus for over 20 minutes. I felt tired. I thought I would be late.

In the end, I was over an hour late for the party. I gave the cake to Macy, but she still felt sad and disappointed.
