A diary

Hu Charlie Ka Yeung (5B)

25 April, 20XX (Sun)   Cloudy

     This afternoon, I was busy cooking in the kitchen. I was helping my mum to bake a cake, it was for dessert of tonight. However, things took a bad turn, all because of one small mistake.

     After we put in the last ingredient we had into the round mould, I put it into the oven. I made a BIG mistake. I set the timer wrongly for the oven. 'Bake the cake for thirteen minutes, it's the most crucial part because if you get it wrong, you'll ruin the whole cake!' Mu mum said. But I miss-heard it and set the timer to thirty minutes.

"Beep!' The timer rang. I couldn't wait to see the cake, but as I opened the oven, a failure was only to be found. I could smell the burnt cake. My mum saw that and said, 'HOW DARE YOU! This was the only last remaining ingredients! Now we have nothing to eat!' I sadly walked to my room.

     Despite all the terrible things that happened, this was the worst. I couldn't believe that I made this mistake and disappointed my mum. It was a bad day for me.